1978 Crop Production At Record High - Crop production in 1978 set a new record high With an index of 131 (1976-100) compared with the 1977 index of 130. Record high production was established by several crops, notably corn and soybeans. The feed grain index at 135 was 7 percent above the previous high set in 1977 while the oil crops index at 180 was 3 percent above the previous high, also set in 1977. Hay and forage production was also at record levels with an index of 115, 5 percent above the 1977 index, the previous record.

The acreage of principal crops planted or grown in 1978 total 334 million acres, 3 percent below the 1977 total.Major decreases were for corn, sorghum, all wheat, oats and barley and cotton while crops increasing in planted acreage included soybeans, rice, rye, sunflower, dry edible beans and sugarbeets. Acreage of principal crops harvested in 1978 totaled 325 million acres down 2% from 1977. Crops showing decreases from 1977 included corn, sorghum, all wheat, oats, barley and cotton.

Production of corn for grain in 1978 is estimated at a record 7.08 million bushels, 10 percent above the 1977 crop and 13 percent above 1976. This is the fourth consecutive year that a production record has been set. The record crop was the result of sharply increased yields which more than offset a reduction in harvested acres. The U.S. yield averaged a record 101.2 bushels per acre, up 10.5 bushels from the previous year and up 4.2 bushels from the previous record set in 1972.

The 1978 production of barley totaled 447 million bushels 6 percent above 1977 and 20 percent above 1976. The increase in the 1978 crop was the result of record yields per acre offsetting fewer acres harvested for grain.

Acreage harvested for grain is estimated at 9.23 million acres, 3 percent below the 9.56 million acres harvested in 1977. Yield per harvested acre averaged a record 48.4 bushels, 4.5 bushels above last year and 2.6 bushels above the previous record high set in 1971.

Production of 1.25 billion bushels of winter wheat in 1978 was 19 percent less than the 1977 crop of 1.54 billion bushels, farmers harvested 38.9 million acres, 20 percent less than in 1977. Average yield of 32.1 bushels was a half bushel better than a year ago.

Growers produced 26.2 million bushels of rye in 1978. This is 51 percent larger than last years 17.3 million bushels and 75 percent larger than the small 1976 crop. Production came from 996 thousand acres 41 percent greater than 1977's 704 thousand acres. The average yield of 26.3 bushels per harvested acre compares with 24.6 bushels last year, the five states of Georgia, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota produced 70 percent of the nation's rye in 1978.

The nation's 1978 soybean crop is estimated at a record high 1.84 billion bushels, 5 percent more than the previous record of 1.76 billion bushels produced in 1977. A sharp increase in the acreage harvested more than offset a moderate decline in the average yield per acre, paving the way for the new record high production. The average yield of 29.2 bushels per acre ranks second only to the 30.6 bushel average attained in 1977.

All tobacco production for 1978 is estimated at 2.02 billion pounds, 5 percent above the 1977 crop. Flue-cured production is up 9 percent but burley production is virtually unchanged.

Harvested acreage of all tobacco totaled 949 thousand acres, down 1 percent from that harvested in 1977. Flue-cured acreage was vitrually unchanged but burley acreage was down 8 percent.

The average yield per acre for all tobacco at 2124 pounds was up from the 1977 pounds produced in 1977.

Flue-cured production is placed at 1.29 billion pounds, up 9 percent from the 1977 production. The production inc rease can be attrubuted primarily to higher yields per acre. The 1978 crop was harvested from 589 thousand acres and yielded 2088 pounds per acre. Outpui in 1977 was also harvested from 589 thousand acres with yields per acre averaging 1917 pounds.

Burley production is estimated at 617 million pounds, virtually unchanged from that produced in 1977. Yield per acre is indicated at 2366 pounds, up from the 2298 pound average of a year earlier. Harvested acreage is estimated at 261 thousand acres, 3 percent less than the 269 thousand acres harvested in 1977.

Wheat, Feed Grain Program Signup - Farmers planting wheat and or feed grain for harvest in 1979 are asked to check on the set-aside program. As in 1978, program participation is voluntary. However, farmers must file their intentions to participate during the signup period to be eligible for program benefits.

These benefits include price support loans on all eligible commodities produced, deficiency and disaster payments for barley, corn sorghum, wheat on the participating farm. Farmers who participate are also eligible to use the grain reserve when it is open.

Provisions of the corn and sorghum program include a 10 percent setaside and a 10 percent diversion. The wheat and barley program contain a 20 percent set-aside requirement. Farmers may sign up for a voluntary diversion payments on corn and sorghum. However, no advance voluntary diversion payments will be made for 1979 crops.

Use Producer Services, Farmers Asked - To avoid unnecessary worry about the loss of 1979 farm program benefits, ASCS advises farmers to use premeasurement and other producer services.

At the request of the producer, we will stake and measure acreages prior to crop planting time. Producer services provided by ASCS include measurement of set-aside land, field or subdivisions to be planted, total cropland, and land areas for other purposes. Fees vary, based on the type of service rendered. The services are guaranteed for the program year in which they are taken.

I encourage farmers to use producer services to assure that they are in compliance and eligible for full 1979 farm program benefits, and to eliminate costly destruction of crops. The request the service, call or visit the local ASCS office.

Kindness and Understanding

By Harry D. Ferguson

After completing my last sentence in jail,
I felt small as a snail.
But with the help of Sam Kerr and his wife,
I am today living a better life.
They gave me work to do on their yard,
trusted me, I had no guard.
Yes, Sam and his wife have been extra nice,
right now I am thanking them twice.
They both gave me a helping hand,
I did not deserve it, I was not aman.
Their kindness and understanding has done a lot for me.
In the past I was blind - with their help I began to see.
My past life has been a shame.
I am correcting it day by day,
hoping my future will not be the same.
Kindness goes a long way,
that's why I am a free man today.
Sam and his wife have trusted me all the way,
loaning me their money so my bills I could pay.
They have been extra good to me,
having the understanding like my family used to be.
Yes, Sam and his wife have trusted me night and day,
always having an encouraging word to say.
When they are out of town, they leave me the key.
I guard their property just like it belonged to me.
So now it's with this pen I let you know,
I'll remember Sam and his family wherever I go.

The children of Liberty Baptist Nursery School had an early lesson in the operation of a supermarket and "good shopper" techniques Monday morning. Gerald Wilbun, owner of Wilbun's Supermarket, guided the tour through the everyday workings of the store. House of Delegates Comments

By Claude W. Anderson

FEB. 21 - We have finally reached the last week of the 1979 General Assembly and have considered a giant amount of legislation in a very short space of time. Even though, these last four days will be spent in session considering even more legislation, so that both Houses will meet the deadline of February 24.

One bill that has proven to be a major headache throughout the Session and continues to do so is Bingo. After having passed the House, the Senate Committee voted to outlaw instant bingo and so amended the bill which now must be considered by the House once more. Hopefully a joint conference committee of the House and Senate will be able to smooth out the major differences and act, once and for all, on Bingo.

Many bills which I mentioned previously have either died or are awaiting the Governor's signature.

The Divorce Bill which passed the House was killed in the Senate Courts of Justice Committee. This bill was designed to simplify property matters in divorces, but in reality it completely changed Virginia's property laws and was thus defeated.

Of the many Senate bills we have received two I feel would be of special interest to you. A bill that calls for the closing of schools on Election day was defeated by the House Privileges and Elections Committee. In many large cities, public schools are used as election precincts and the bill's intent was to provide greater safety for the students. However, members considered that on election day there was no threat to student safety and thus defeated the measure.

Also another tax increase was defeated. Northern Virginia had requested the sales tax in their area to be raised 1% in order to pay for the metro transit system they plan to install. The House Finance Committee defeated this 10-8. The sales tax and income taxes are the state's major source of income and members felt that increases should be done only on a statewide basis and then, very sparingly. Also, if granted, other localities would ask for the same type increase in state sales taxes, in order to increase their own local income, and this is the wrong way to use a state tax system.

Two important bills concerning the repairing and operating of automobiles passed both houses and now await the Governor's approval. One says that an automobile repairman must stay within 10% of his estimate. While this may benefit consumers, I feel that it places, once again, greater restrictions on independent businessmen and increases their paper work. This work increase may also raise the prices for consumers, therefore, I am not in favor of this legislation. The other bill concerns the operation of service stations. The Senate Committee reported this measure, which has already passed the House, which limits producer-owned and operated service stations. This does not take away any of their present stations but does not allow them to increase their ownership. This bill is aimed at protecting the independent service station owner from being run-out-of business by not allowing the large oil producing companies to gain a monopoly in the gas station market.

Lastly, a very important measure was passed by both the Senate and House. This bill provides a constitutional limit which places a 10% debt lid on cities and towns. This is a very imporant measure as it limits the amount of money a city or town can borrow according to its income. For the record, all Virginia cities and towns are very well off but Manassas and Richmond are very close to the 10% limit.

Even though the Assembly is almost over, I would like to hear your opinions on any issues and feel free to contact me. And thank you very much to those of you who have expressed their opinions and conc.rns to me. I appreciate your interest.

Loses 96 Pounds and Keeps It Off!
Credits Healthy Conway Diet
Pat Bennett lost 96 pounds in nine months on the Conway 1000 Calorie Diet. That was in 1977.
In 1978 she had her first thin year since beginning her family. Pat has experienced no difficulty maintaining her entire weight loss.
She attributes her success to sound nutrition, increased physical activity and maintaining her own personal motivation.
"I learned it all at the Conway weekly seminars," says the smiling, self-confident Mrs. Bennett.
The Conway weight reduction program consists of three main elements:
• The Ideal 1000 calorie diet that includes all food groups and exceeds the established nutritional requirement for adults.
• Weekly educational seminars that deal with the physical, nutritional and emotional causes of overweight.
• The Forever Slim plan for permanently maintaining slimness.
